

Quantum Computational Machine Vision

A I LVOVSKY¹, M FILIPOVICH¹, K BEARNE¹, AND A DUPLINSKII¹

¹*Department of Physics, University of Oxford, Oxford, UK*
Contact Email: alex.lvovsky@physics.ox.ac.uk

By treating machine vision and imaging tasks as quantum sensing, we design and train optical neural networks to implement a measurement that extracts information from the incoming light in the most efficient way permitted by quantum mechanics. Applications include quantum ensemble discrimination, object detection and superresolved regression.